DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 26 November 2007 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hernandez et al (6458455).

Hernandez teaches a thread for use in a stretchable fabric article comprising 30% by weight or more of a staple fiber formed out of one type of polytrimethylene terephthalate (Column 3, lines 26-47). Polytrimethylene terephthalate inherently has breaking elongation of greater than 100%, instantaneous elastic recovery at 5% elongation of greater than 65%, at 20% of greater than 60, and at 30% of greater than 60%. While Hernandez essentially teaches the invention as detailed, he fails to specifically teach what the resultant breaking elongation and instantaneous elastic recovery data would be for a blended yarn of PTT and cotton, which would obviously be lower than that of 100% PTT. It would have been obvious, however, to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, to have utilized enough cotton to reduce the data percentages to those desired, so as to control stretch and strength. PTT has expected ranges of breaking elongation and elastic recovery. Since cotton inherently has lower expected ranges, and blend of the two fibers would obviously have a range therebetween. Given an intended use, such as sewing thread, the ordinarily skilled artisan would have been more than capable of determining the correct amounts through routine experimentation. The step of lowering the breaking elongation and elastic recovery by blending PTT with another fiber is obvious, and its results expected.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Fleri et al (6462145) teaches what is well known in the blended PTT yarn art. POLYMER and The Journal of Applied Polymer Science teach the inherent properties of PTT.
